

TO-MORROW, Sunday, September 25.

Here are some of the features which will make THIS SUNDAY WORLD to be issued to-morrow by far the most interesting, instructive, elevating and amusing publication in New York or anywhere else in this world:

THE SCARLET LETTER.

The reader who fails to find something that appeals directly to his individual taste in this edition of THIS SUNDAY WORLD is a very strange animal and cannot be very popular in his neighborhood. A great many men, even in these days, like serious things and appreciate good, substantial readings. For their benefit THIS SUNDAY WORLD will publish, complete, Hawthorne's remarkable story, "The Scarlet Letter." The trials and the high character of Miss Hester Prynne, who fell in love with Arthur Dimmesdale and then went patiently through life with the scarlet letter, a "red mark" on her forehead, a mark that never grew old or uninteresting. Those who have read the book already, as many thousands of THIS SUNDAY WORLD's readers doubtless have done, will readily find it very good to have the story read to them. Any man who reads THIS SUNDAY WORLD and fails to put "The Scarlet Letter" in his hands, it has read itself, into the hands of some one who has not read it will be as guilty as one who throws away good food because he has had enough to eat. Even those who have already read what is perhaps the greatest American novel may find comfort in reading it over again. The citizen who wallows in his own righteousness, moved by his admiration for poor Miss Prynne, will perhaps judge more humanely contemporaries in trouble, while the plain everyday citizen reading the doings of society, the reports of the English law courts and "The Scarlet Letter" simultaneously may enjoy the task of calculating how much red flannel would cost a yard if society were as strict and as well informed as in the days of Miss Prynne. Mr. Hawthorne, who is now in the hands of the English law courts, has written for THIS SUNDAY WORLD an article, apropos of the novel's publication, which is very interesting and which proves what everybody knows, that Mr. Hawthorne is a many-sided young man.

"The Scarlet Letter" is very attractive, as he is in everything, from "Princess Kai" to "Jekyll and Hyde," but it is not the sort of a play that he should take on. He is not suited, physically, to the part of a sentimental, dreamy, shamed citizen like Dimmesdale. His neck, which is very muscular, and his shoulders, which are fat legs until him for such work. For his muscular, who was very handsome, a leading actor in London, who played in "The Scarlet Letter" with a perfect success. Hawthorne is a much better actor than Hawthorne, but he can never make as good a Dimmesdale as a man like Hawthorne. Hawthorne is a much better actor than Hawthorne, but he can never make as good a Dimmesdale as a man like Hawthorne. Hawthorne is a much better actor than Hawthorne, but he can never make as good a Dimmesdale as a man like Hawthorne.

THE LAST DAYS OF COLUMBUS.

The SUNDAY WORLD continues to impress upon the American people the fact that Christopher Columbus was a man entitled to a great deal of consideration. With THIS SUNDAY WORLD to-morrow will be issued a really fine engraving of the famous picture, "Columbus before the court of Queen Isabella." The work of reproducing this picture has been done by Mr. Grayson, who is a very successful engraver. The picture is a very fine one, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known. The engraving is a very fine one, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known. The engraving is a very fine one, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known.

THE LEMON TREE.

In addition to the complete novel, "The Scarlet Letter," THIS SUNDAY WORLD will publish Ouida's latest story, "The Lemon Tree." This story, now published for the first time, will be very gratifying to young women. It will make them weep. A young man goes off to do a soldier's duty, and the young woman, vainly waiting for him, pines and dies. Her pet lemon tree in the front yard does the same, and as the young man, the girl and the lemon tree are the only characters in the story, that of course it is a story of a very simple kind. The story is a very simple one, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known.

CATS, BY JEROME K. JEROME.

Mr. Jerome K. Jerome, the funny English writer, is sometimes really funny. THIS SUNDAY WORLD has bought the series of stories which he is now writing and prints them when they appear, concluding to bring a ray of light to the troubled American brow. This story about cats is worth printing.

GEORGE VANDERBILT'S ADVENTURES.

Mr. George Vanderbilt, for whose benefit New York Central stationmen pull switches all night long, and whose purse we all fawn whenever we want to go somewhere, has decided to leave us a little while and go to Japan. This is an important event to American and Japanese girls. It means sorrow for our girls and joy for the little Japs. A very pleasing feature of THIS SUNDAY WORLD to-morrow will be the article about Mr. Vanderbilt's probable adventures abroad. The greetings of the Japanese girls, the tears of American maidens, and the hilarious joy of the Japanese art dealers and the gentle thoughtfulness of Mr. Vanderbilt's admirers will be all beautifully treated by the artist. With the pictures will be found a few words to tell just what the pictures mean.

THUMBS AND LEGS.

A great many well-behaved young women who determine to join some consociation chorus and help support their aged parents are much agitated by the various stories told about the chorus girls and experience and numerous incidents. It is generally understood that a young woman, right out of a Puritan home let us say, who wants to play a ball game and get a spectacular show, as soon as she sees the manager in a rooming house, she is told that she is not fit to be a chorus girl, and that she is not fit to be a chorus girl. The idea of this is to tell many young women from the stage beyond doubt, and that it is not fit to be a chorus girl. The idea of this is to tell many young women from the stage beyond doubt, and that it is not fit to be a chorus girl.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN.

Mr. William A. Walsh, who two weeks ago described so beautifully and so accurately the ways and manners of the American girl, writes this week about the American woman into which the American girl develops. All of the American woman's specialties are kindly but frankly discussed. As a wife, as a mother and as a woman who sits up late waiting for the American man, she is faithfully photographed. All that witty man has said about her in the past is bottled down and presented most attractively. The American woman is an attractive creature when she is not so much a wife as a woman who sits up late waiting for the American man.

THE AMERICAN REPORTER.

will be a very pleasing element in the make-up of to-morrow's SUNDAY WORLD. Last Sunday The World talked about the American reporter and the work that he does. The account of his performance will be continued this week. It will be found that the American reporter is an individual who thinks and acts quickly, and who is worthy of a great deal of respect which he very often doesn't get. It will probably interest a good many SUNDAY WORLD readers to get a sort of an idea of the writers who work for such and such other newspapers.

MEN WHO ACT.

These gentlemen, as well as the women who act, will be carefully attended to in THIS SUNDAY WORLD. Mr. John Drew, one of the most interesting and certainly the most popular American actors, has left Mr. Daly and struck out for himself. It will, no doubt, soften Mr. Augustin Daly's pangs of disappointment to read the pleasant things which THIS SUNDAY WORLD will say about Mr. Drew to-morrow and to see at the many pictures of Mr. Drew which it will print. Mr. Drew's performance in "The Scarlet Letter" was a very fine one, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known.

WOMEN WHO ACT.

Of these Miss Lottie Collins is doubtless the most interesting this week. THIS SUNDAY WORLD will make people as familiar and well acquainted with the young woman as they can reasonably desire to be. The SUNDAY WORLD will find particularly interesting this week, tells these things about Miss Collins which the rest of the world does not know. She is a very interesting woman, and it is a pity that it is not more widely known.

THE REVIEW OF THE WEEK.

A review, charmingly illustrated, of the latest and finest efforts of the funny artists, dealing for the most part with the most of the dandies in the periodical humorous literature of Europe. It also contains an objectionable feature of American comic papers with a possibly less objectionable one of those of Paris.

"DAVE" MARTIN MUST GO.

Republican Leaders Alarmed at the Expose of His Record.

He is Imported to Look After Naturalization and Colonization.

The disclosures made regarding the character and methods of "Dave" Martin, Philadelphia's political boss and Senator Quay's man Friday, whom the Republican campaign managers have imported to look after that party's naturalization and colonization interests here, have amazed the people of New York.
